WIDE OPEN.

For the benefit of skeptics (if any) my insurance books are open for their inspection, and they tell all about my insurance business. They tell of the quantity of insurance I write, of the good quality of the companies I represent. This is not all my books tell—they tell of particular men; men who are worth millions and who hold large policies with me. I say particular men, because men who have millions of dollars of insurance to place are pretty sure to place with the agent who represents good companies. I repeat, my books are wide open.
